MISCREANT CUT

Opposition to Granting of Excise Permit Said to Have Been Withdrawn-Compromise on Height of Building Likely.

GET LICENSE

It is said to-day that opposition made residents in the neighborhood of the St. Regis Hotel to the hotel securing an excise license has been withdrawn. These residents opposed the license being granted on the grounds that the entrance to the hotel was less than 201 feet away from the door of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Measurements were made both by the opposition and by Mr. Haan, proprietor the hotel. The former found the distance from door to door less than 200 feet. The latter found he had several feet to spare, the difference being explained by the fact that Mr. Haan's surveyors measured from each door straight out to the curbstone and then diagonally across. Mr. Haan's surveyors also claimed to have found that the church had been bullt two feet outside the stoop line.

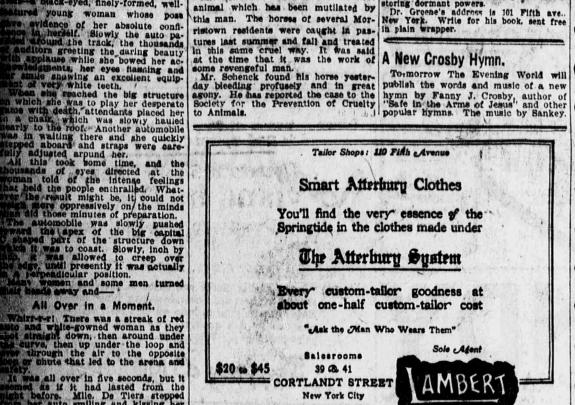

The real fight is being made over the erection of the annex to the hotel, on which work was suspended last autumn. Some of the residents of the neighborhood went so far as to prepare papers to serve in injunction proceedings, and when this was learned work on the building was stopped. Opposition to the erection of an eighteen-story build-ing is not at an end, and persons in-terested said that if work was resumed the papers would be served immediately. It is said, however, that there is a compromise on foot, and that if the owner of the St. Regis agrees to build the annex to no greater height than the dwelling houses adjacent it is iskely that all opposition will gease. building was stopped.
